Since 1926, FSL has assisted in all aspects of human services, including mental health counseling, treatment of addition abuse, crisis care, early education, and senior services. Every year, it touches the lives of more than 50,000 Long Island children and families. In this social climate it is important to reiterate its founding values - FSL rejects racism, prejudice, and intolerance on every level. Society is meant for all people to have equal and equitable access to quality health care, education, food, justice, and security, along with many other necessities. All of these are basic and essential rights - for everyone - and that will always be our guiding principle. Today, and every day in communities across Long Island, FSL is Restoring Hope and Rebuilding Lives!
